

CO-EXECUTIVE DIRECTORS SEARCH

After a six-month process whereby we assessed our strengths, structures and strategic direction, The Washington Bus is excited to announce that we have made the intentional decision to move from a hierarchical leadership structure to a shared management model as a way of elevating young professionals to take on significant leadership roles in today's non-profit organizations. The Washington Bus therefore is seeking their next strategic and creative Co-Executive Directors – The Co-Executive Director for Operations and Development and The Co-Executive Director for Policy and Program – to shape, inspire, and manage the organization's future in collaboration with one another, a talented staff team and a deeply committed Board of Directors.

To lead the Washington Bus is to be at the forefront of moving our political process into a more inclusive and equitable space. The Bus drives up to the edges of the known civic engagement map, and then goes beyond. The Co-Executive Directors must navigate and thrive under these dynamics and be fully committed to steering the Bus into the decade ahead. In addition, they must have a track record of implementing anti-racist practices and working to undo institutional racism in our political structures. This is an incredible opportunity for two talented leaders to mesh their skills together in a way that brings out the best in one another and pushes the Washington Bus to excellence.

Co-Executive Director for Operations and Development (DOD)

This new co-director role will be responsible for working closely with the board of directors to set overall fundraising and communications strategies for the organization. The DOD will also be primarily responsible for developing partnerships with funders – corporate, foundations, individual donors, and have their own portfolio of major donors to steward. The DOD will be responsible for overall budget development, general operations and financial management of the organization and work collaboratively with the DPP to ensure the organization is achieving its overall goals and objectives. The DOD will report directly to the Board of Directors. This is a full-time exempt position.

Co-Executive Director for Policy and Program (DPP)

This new co-director role will be the primary external face of the organization as it pertains to policy, program and community partnerships. The DPP will be responsible for developing overall political, advocacy and programmatic strategies and ensuring the metrics necessary to accomplish the overall goals of the organization are being met. The DPP will develop collaborative partnerships with organizations in similar spaces to achieve mutual goals and move strategies forward. The DPP will work collaboratively with the DOD to ensure fundraising needs are clearly articulated and the budget is reflective of the program needs and policy initiatives in any given year. The DPP will also have a portfolio of major donors to steward and will report directly to the Board of Directors. This is a full-time exempt position.

The DOD and the DPP will need to have a symbiotic relationship with one another, working closely and collaboratively at all times for the betterment of the organization. They will need to use their unique skillsets to ensure that the C3 and C4 boards and staff are aligned and the goals of the organization are met at the highest levels. These are dynamic, fast-paced roles that continue to evolve alongside our organization and team. No two days will be alike, and the work will range from big picture to granular details.

ABOUT THE WASHINGTON BUS

Founded in 2007, The Washington Bus is a statewide movement building organization that engages young people in the civic process. We focus our resources on empowering young people of color, LGBTQ youth, first generation college students, and young people from working class and immigrant communities. We activate our generation through education, civic participation, and hands-on democracy, and work to put the young people most often excluded from the political process at its center.

VISION

The Bus is committed to creating an equitable Washington State, where the voices of all young people are valued, and we are all able to make an equal impact in our community.

VALUES

We strive to remove barriers to political participation so that our generation has the capacity and opportunity to realize our full potential.

We believe that when our politics are inclusive, our democracy is strengthened. By engaging and empowering leaders who reflect the diversity of our generation, we are working to ensure that all people benefit from the full power of our democracy.

CHALLENGES AND OPPORTUNITIES

The Washington Bus is about to celebrate its' 13th year of existence and is excited to bring on new leadership to take the organization into the next decade and beyond – building on our past successes and ensuring more wins into the future; truly changing the face of democracy in the State of Washington to be more reflective of the young people in our universe. Our overhead budget for 2020 will be larger than in the past as we are holding time and space for these leaders to take us in a renewed direction as an organization. We are grateful for the support of current funders, supporting our programmatic work, and excited to see what our future holds with these new leaders as they and our staff build what is to come.

LONG-TERM SUSTAINABILITY

One of the greatest challenges facing the nonprofit sector is developing sustainable funding models. While the Washington Bus was recently awarded a significant 5-year funding commitment for our core programming, we also need to increase the budget and funding streams for the Bus. Stewarding of current donors and creating relationships that bring in new resources coupled with creativity, entrepreneurial spirit, and calculated risk-taking, will all be required of the Co-ED for Operations and Development to realize the potential of The Bus and ensure it has the ongoing resources necessary to thrive and improve its leadership role in civic youth activism and engagement.

POLITICAL LANDSCAPE

We are at a critical and exciting time in political history and there is much at stake as we move into 2020. Not only could Washington's early primary make an impact in the Presidential primary, but major state elections will also be front and center and it will be imperative that young people get out to vote in unprecedented numbers. In addition, ensuring that the 2020 Census has the most complete count of those that have traditionally been undercounted will be critical. The Washington Bus is leading the charge to educate young people about the importance of the Census and the impact they can have by helping their families respond to it. The Co-ED for Policy and Program will play a significant role in the strategy development for all of these as well as other activities necessary to be a leader in this space.

COMMUNITY PARTNERSHIPS

The Washington Bus is part of a number of key political coalitions. Now is the time for The Bus to take a leadership role in developing a new Youth Table that will bring together a myriad of youth-based civic minded organizations to work together on behalf of young people in our state. The Co-ED leadership team will understand how best to approach this opportunity to strengthen the role of the Washington Bus and provide a platform for youth-led organizations to have the voice they deserve.

STRATEGIC PLANNING IMPLEMENTATION

The Board of Directors of the Washington Bus is developing a strategic plan that has as its catalyst, goals the organization hopes to achieve by the year 2030. Crafting a set of long-term vision statements that will guide the Bus over the next 10 years is in process. These statements will provide a solid framework from which the Co-Executive Directors will set the strategic direction of the Bus bringing their collective visions to life. They will work to ensure the Bus becomes a statewide organization, programmatic capacity is increased and the staff and budget grows exponentially to achieve success.
